Print Styles

FULL COLOR DIGITAL PRINTING

Full-color digital printing is a process that prints in a full spectrum of colors directly onto paper or other materials. This method is affordable and ideal for producing vibrant, detailed prints without the need for traditional printing plates. It's especially suited for wedding invitations with custom artwork or colorful designs as the focal point.

RAISED THERMOGRAPHY

Thermography is a printing process that creates raised, textured lettering or designs by applying a special powder to wet ink and then heating it. The heat causes the powder to melt and bond to the ink, resulting in a glossy, raised effect similar to engraving but at a more affordable price. This process is often used for wedding invitations and stationery to add a touch of elegance and depth.

FOIL STAMPING OR FOIL PRESS

Foil stamping, or foil press, is a specialized printing technique that uses heat, pressure, and metallic or color foil to create a shiny, reflective design on the surface of paper or other materials. The process involves first manufacturing a copper plate featuring a custom design then pressing the heated metal die onto the foil, which transfers the design onto the material, giving it an elegant, luxurious finish. It's commonly used for adding metallic accents, such as gold or silver, to enhance the look and feel of wedding invitations and stationery. It is a luxury print process and more costly than digital printing or thermography.

LETTERPRESS

Letterpress is a traditional printing technique where semi-transparent inked designs or text are pressed into thick, soft cotton paper using a custom metal or polymer plate. This process creates a distinct, tactile impression that adds elegance and texture to each piece. Known for its classic, timeless feel, letterpress is often used for high-end stationery like wedding invitations. It is the most luxurious of all of the print processes.

A bride and groom are shown in a close embrace outdoors. The bride is wearing a white lace wedding dress and a veil, and the groom is wearing a light-colored suit. They are both smiling and looking at each other. The background is a soft-focus landscape with greenery and hills.
